What is Dallas City of Learning?

Dallas City of Learning is a partnership between Big Thought, the City of Dallas, and Dallas Independent School District to ensure all students have access to high-quality summer learning programs that stem summer learning loss. Together, we work with a powerful network of over 600 neighborhood, community and city partners to connect students to free or low-cost educational resources and opportunities.

Is there a cost to participate in Dallas City of Learning?

Over 90% of the programs and experiences within Dallas City of Learning are free. You will be able to review costs for programs through the website.

What's in it for me and my child?

Dallas City of Learning helps young people see how the things they are interested in are connected to other activities, fields of study (like science, technology and the arts), career paths, and college degrees. Dallas City of Learning turns the entire city into a "classroom" – a place where young people can "major" in the things that they love to do and want to learn more about.
